

Alberta & the Great War:
A Guide to First World War Records at the Provincial Archives of Alberta

The Provincial Archives of Alberta (PAA) preserves the collective memory of Alberta and contributes to the protection of Albertans' rights and sense of identity. Located in Edmonton, Alberta, the PAA acquires, preserves and makes available for research private and government records of provincial significance. The PAA also serves as the permanent repository of records of enduring value of the Government of Alberta.

Among its extensive holdings, the PAA has a wide collection of records related to the First World War and the role that Albertans played in that conflict. In conjunction with the centennial of the First World War, this document is a guide to these records.

The guide is organized by theme and provenance, i.e. the person or group that created and/or collected the records. The themes are sometimes based on provenance themselves (e.g. Canadian Expeditionary Force or Royal Flying Corps) and are sometimes more general in nature (e.g. Memoirs or Correspondence). Within each theme, the records are described based on provenance. Each entry in the guide is arranged as follows:

Name of creator/collector of records (fonds number¹)

Description of records.

Accession number(s)²

Date range

Editor: Braden Cannon, Private Records Archivist

November 2014

¹ A fonds is the whole of the documents, regardless of form or medium, created and/or accumulated and used by a particular individual, family or corporate body in the course of that creator's activities or functions. At the Provincial Archives of Alberta, each fonds is assigned a unique, alpha-numeric identifier consisting of GR (for government records) or PR (for private records) followed by a four-digit number.

² An accession is a donation of records that has been accepted into an archives. A single fonds will consist of one or more accessions. Each donation of records is assigned an accession number consisting of GR (for government records) or PR (for private records) followed by the year in which the records were donated to the PAA, a full stop, then a unique, four-digit number. Accession numbers are essential for locating and accessing records.
